

Altogether Care and Access TEC

Technology that enables support and care in your home.

A message from your care provider

This is a partnership between Altogether Care and The Access Group.

The system utilises Access TEC technology and their Home Hub device.

It will help us understand your needs so we can provide support that is right for you.

It helps make sure you can live as independently as possible.

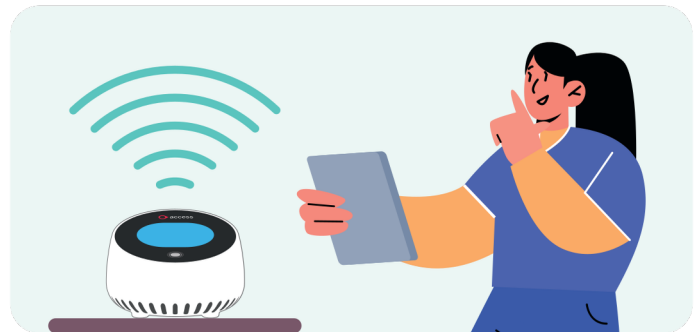

How does it work?

The Home Hub links sensors and detectors around your home.

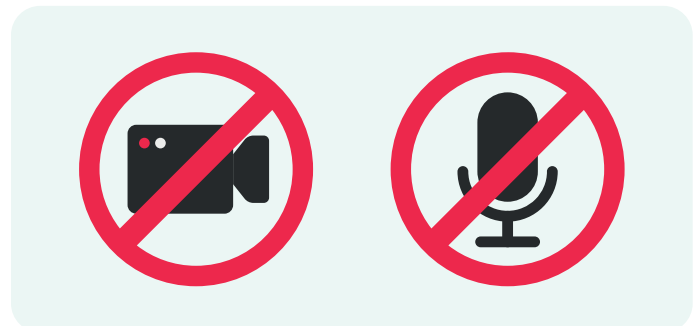

They are small and unobtrusive.

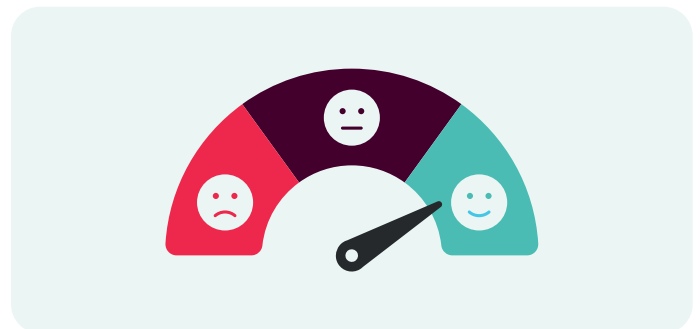

They send information based on your activity to your care circle.

They do not send video, pictures or sound.

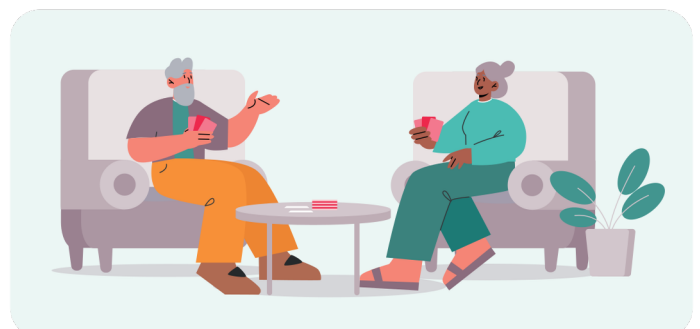

Your care circle can also include family and friends who can access information that helps them know you are safe and well.

You don't have to change anything.

You can just carry on with your normal activity in your home.

Why would this help me?

All of us worry about being safe, but don't want round-the-clock care.

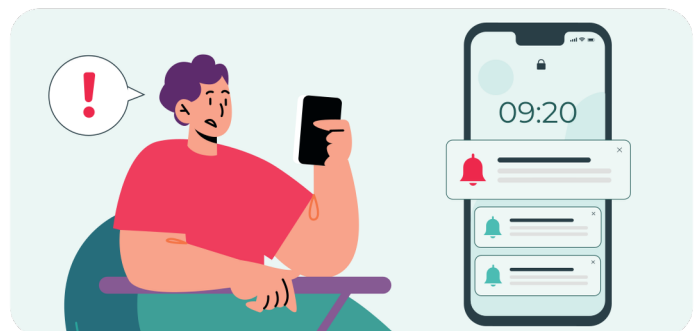

This can also concern other people who are close to us.

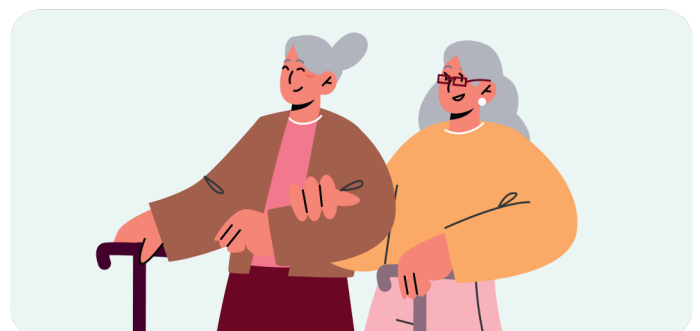

The system can see when things aren't going well or if anything is changing.

Your care circle can see this and react quickly.

Helping you to feel confident and enjoy your daily activities as usual.

What will I see in my home?

You will see an Access Home Hub plugged into a power socket.

You will also see sensors located around your home.

Motion

What will happen next?

The Home Hub will be installed in your home soon.

Your family and friends may also be involved if you decide it is right for you.

This means the information from the sensors may be shared with them as well.

Your care circle and the Installer will answer any questions you may have.

In summary

The system has one key role.

It lets us know you are doing well and if anything changes.

By knowing this we can provide support that better meets your needs.

The system can...

Maintain your independence

Help you feel confident at home

Reassure you that help (if required) is available 24/7

Provide positive reassurance to people who are close to you.

Provide support in a respectful way

Ensure you have the right support for your needs
